After commission OK Council must decide fate of golf course

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

The decision on rezoning the Shady Hollow Golf Course has been thrown to the Romulus City Council. The Romulus City Planning Commission approved a resolution Thursday night recommending the rezoning of 51.27 acres of the 106-acre golf course at Wayne and Wick roads providing the developers, Wick-way Inc., show commitments for leases from a department store and supermarket of "state-wide reputation."

The commission voted 5-1 to recommend the action on a motion from Hulen Yates with a support from Duke Zavitz.

Former Romulus Building Department director and commission member Clayton Meldrum voted against the rezoning. Meldrum offered no reason for his "no" vote.

Commission members Donald Treder, outspoken opponent of the rezoning, and Ronald Makino, the man who brought the development firm to Romulus, were absent from the meeting.

Both were marked "excused" at the direction of commission chairman Richard Butz.

Voting in the affirmative were Butz, Zavitz, Yates, Jack Trumble and Robert Plank.

Plank, along with Zavitz, are new members of the commission appointed by the Romulus City Council only two days prior to the meeting to fill vacancies created when a council-approved ordinance removed Mayor Terry L. Troutt and Building Department Director Howard Lethemann from the commission. Troutt recommended the Plank and Zavitz appointments.

The resolution approved by the commission calls for a recommendation of rezoning pending the filing of letters showing commitments from a quality department store and supermarket.

Wick-way Inc. is a wedding of the Markward Karafilis construction firm and the Marwood senior citizen housing construction firm. Richard Samuels, vice-president of Markward Karafilis, and Marcus Woodson president of Marwood, are president and vice-president, respectively of Wick-way.

Plans call for developing 15 acres of the land with a shopping center, 10 acres of the land with a senior citizen housing complex and leaving the remaining 26 acres undeveloped.

Richard Samuels, one of the developers, said the plans call for "phased development" with the remaining 26 acres of the requested rezoning left open for future developments.

The commission's decision merely is a recommendation of action to the Romulus City Council.

The council must vote to approve the rezoning as an amendment to the city's zoning ordinance.

A meeting will be held with the developer and the council when all the items in the recommendation are fulfilled. The Planning Commission will be in attendance to receive assurances that all conditions are met before the council takes action.

The rezoning decision apparently has split the city government in Romulus with Councilman James Stewart leading a contingent of citizens in opposition to the rezoning, and Mayor Terry L. Troutt vowing to back the proposal providing the developer fulfills promises of bringing "substantial businesses" to the community.

The development firm will have six months to begin construction on the shopping center if the City Council grants approval.

Despite the furor over the rezoning of the golf course, owner Alexander Dul has informed the city in writing that he intends to sell the course to a private developer.

A developer could use the full 106-acre parcel for single family homes without requesting a rezoning under the present city zoning ordinance.

Incumbent loses seat

A life long Romulus residents who had made a career of voluntary public service in the community has taken a seat on the Romulus Education Board from a 4-year incumbent.

Gordon Silvey, 39, of 36831 Porter St., outpolled incumbent Board Secretary Diane Boger by more than 130 votes Monday to win a 4-year term on the Board of Education.

He has been active in the Jaycee movement, the Rotary movement and his church.

"I'm happy and pleased with the voters decision, but I couldn't have done it without the support of many wonderful friends," Silvey said following his victory. "I want to thank all those who voted for me, and those who helped make decisions for education in Romulus by voting."

Silvey added that he has some major goals in taking a seat on the board, "but you have to remember I'm only one of seven persons, and I have to work with others.

"I think one of the major problems we face is the racial and the drug problem at Romulus High School. In addition, I'd like to work for an elimination of busing within the district, unless it meant taking away from educational opportunity for the youngsters."

The winner will take his seat on the board at the end of the month. Board of Education Board of Councillors.

Silvey worked his way through the ranks of the Jaycees in Romulus, becoming the first Jaycee to hold a state office when he was elected state president in 1963. He later was the first from the community to win a prestigious Jaycee senatorship for the state.

Having left the Jaycee movement in 1971, Silvey continued his public service in the Romulus Rotary Club.

He also is active in the Community United Methodist Church and is a member of the Romulus Beautification Commission. He is a former member of the Romulus

With a little help

Romulus residents Kenneth and Ruth Samuels help make the school work of their nephew Sheldon a little more pleasant during some of his studies at their home. Sheldon, who had been suspended from school in 1974, was struck by a car Jan. 27 in an accident which helped him straighten out study problems he had had during his time at Romulus High School. The student, who was supported to reenter school following his suspension on the day after the accident, "learned" to study without distractions and raised his grade average from a D-minus level to a B level during his confinement with two shattered legs and a broken hip. — Photo by The Romulus Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

Election may be set

Romulus residents will be asked to pay for improved services in a special Aug. 12 election.

Following the Romulus City Council decision early last week to request that Wayne County set aside the mid-August date for an election, The Romulus Roman has learned that citizens will be asked to vote millage for a road and drain improvement program and for the construction of a recreation center in the city.

Although no public official will verify the reports, The Roman has learned citizens will be asked to set aside a special millage to handle the black-topping of all roads in the city. An adjunct question on the millage will be whether citizens favor bonding for a recreation center.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt Monday declined to release specifics on the millage, but said: "It's always been my opinion that a leader in this office should propose programs and ask the citizens for their opinion on it."

The Roman reported two months ago that Troutt had revealed to political intimates that he would propose the massive road paving program at the same time he announced his intention to seek office.

No concrete talk was made on the cost of such a proposal, although those in attendance at the meeting indicated there may be a 2-mill bill for such a massive program.

When asked about the millage, Troutt admitted that there was a decision to hold a special election, but said he would release full details next week.

Mishap changes life

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

An accident which would cramp the ambitions of most youths may have made the difference in Sheldon Samuels' short life.

The day Sheldon a 16-year-old Romulus High School junior, was struck by a car as he crossed Inkster Road near Ecorse Road in Romulus, he was trying to get back into school after being suspended for the first semester of this school year for having verbal bouts with both a teacher and an assistant principal at the school.

"I didn't care much about studies then," he said. "But I guess you could say the accident worked to my benefit, in a funny sort of way."

Sheldon had just found out he could return to school the next day when he was hit by a car Jan. 27 as he was crossing a street to meet two sisters who were waiting in a restaurant.

The youth suffered a broken femur (thigh) on his left leg and a compound fracture of the femur on his right leg.

He was rushed to Wayne County General Hospital for treatment.

At the hospital following the accident, Sheldon had plenty of time to mull his D-minus grade average before Gail Garnetti, the Romulus School District's homebound teacher met with him.

"At the time I was thinking of nothing but goofing off," Sheldon said. "But the teacher offered to help me with some courses, and I took them."

"I can't say I was too enthused, but you have to go to school."

Sheldon embarked on half the normal grade load of a history course, a science course and an English course in the hospital and then at home.

As he puts it: I had nothing else to do, so I studied a bit and worked with the teacher."

Today his grade average is at a B level, and may be rising.

"I was fortunate in a funny way for the accident," Sheldon said. "It turned out a lot better for me, because before I'd hang around with my friends in the school and would think of nothing but goofing around with them."

"Now I'm interested in getting my grades up and I'm thinking seriously of college."

Sheldon said that during his long confinement at the home of his aunt and uncle, Ruth and Kenneth Samuels of Romulus, he discussed his future with his aunt.

Miss Garnetti, who has been with the district for the past two years said Sheldon's attitude that he can do it is welcomed by teachers and administrators at the school.

Continuing tradition

While the cap and gown symbolize graduation day to most of the older generation in the Romulus area, students leaving high school have added a new tradition — the painted car. Romulus High School senior Dennis Conn labored for hours on his replica of the "Romulus Eagle" on his automobile and then asked graduating senior Barb labored for hours on his replica of the "Romulus Eagle" the streets of Romulus until the cap and gown ceremonies end tomorrow.—The Romulus Roman photo.

On the inside

It took enthusiasm, some elbow grease and the efforts of the city's scout units to get the ball rolling, but the end result was a new look for the City of Romulus. See story and photos on Page A-11.

VB youth catches 'biggest channel cat fish'

A 13-year-old Van Buren Township youth has caught what a veteran fisherman of Belleville Lake describes as "the biggest channel cat I've ever seen." Jeff Williams, the son of

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams of Hoeft Road, Van Buren Township, caught a 6-pound channel cat fish of 23 inches in length on a recent fishing outing with a friend, Howard Parry.

Parry, a resident of the Belleville area for 28 years, said the fish is the biggest of its kind he's seen on the lake.

"We were fishing on the south shore of the lake near the Miller Subdivision off of Huron River Drive when the fish hit a night crawler," said Parry, who has been fishing for 50 years. There only have been a few channel cats taken out of the lake as is, but this is the biggest I've seen."

Parry is a friend of the Williams family who added that Jeff will fish "once every couple of weeks" during summer and winter months.

The 13-year-old student at South Junior High School battled the fish for 10 minutes before landing it in the Parry rowboat. He was fishing with a 10-pound test line.

"This is the third channel cat I've seen come out of the lake," Parry said. "I believe that they were stocked recently by the Department of Natural Resources to improve fishing.

"Well, it has improved. And Jeff has some mighty good eating waiting for him when he cooks the fish."

Hart's decision may start 'musical chairs'

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff
The decision of Philip A. Hart to step down from his seat in the U.S. Senate at the end of his term in 1976 could start a giant "musical chairs" game involving virtually every local political office in the 15th Congressional District.

Though he has indicated he will "urge" Hart to seek another term because the Michigan senator will have enough seniority "to get things done for his state"

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15 District) is one mentioned as a successor to Hart.

At his recent Congressman William D. Ford Press Appreciation Dinner in Taylor Ford declined comment on whether he would seek Hart's seat if the senator stepped down. However insiders in the political field have indicated that Ford is more than willing to tackle the job.

If Ford runs, he will have to leave the 15th District post he has held since 1964—and that vacancy will create a scramble for position in state and local offices throughout the area.

One of the prime contenders for the congressional post would be State Sen. William Faust (D-13th District) who rebounded from a narrow defeat for the post in 1964 at the hands of Ford to assume a major role in the Michigan State Senate.

Faust is said to be preparing for a campaign for Ford's seat, and at this time some prime opposition may come from Taylor Mayor S. Richard Marshall—the brother of William C. Marshall, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

Talk also is starting on boosting Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt for the congressional post.

If Faust decides to run, the state legislative plum of a State Senate seat would open up to such contenders as Thomas H. Brown 4-year veteran of the 37th District State House seat Westland Mayor Eugene McKinney and Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton.

Both McKinney and Norton have indicated a willingness to step down from their local posts to make a run for the Senate and Brown has become more visible in his governmental affairs since he has gained seniority in the State House and the talk of Hart's possible resignation started more than two years ago.

If Troutt does not run for Congress there also is a possibility he would consider running for the state post he lost to Faust in 1966.

It also is possible that the area will see the first serious attempt by a woman to seek a state political post since a Westland Councilwoman opposed Brown in the Democratic primary for the 37th District State House post in 1972.

Patricia Cullin the Republican clerk in Van Buren Township has been building up allegiances throughout the area which she possible could use to make a run for the State Senate seat now belonging to Faust.

If township officials believe they have the power to take the State Senate seat, it also is possible that Canton Township Supervisor Robert Greenstein would consider moving out of the local post.

Depending on Brown's plans, Greenstein could have his choice of running for either the Senate or House at the state level.

But the whole game depends on Hart and Ford. And despite his announcement two weeks ago that he will not seek office again many prominent Michigan political officials including Ford, are urging the senator to reconsider his position and stay on for another 6-year term.

Pit nuisance may be cleared up

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff
Arrangements have been made among city officials, property owners and police agencies in Romulus to clear up a chronic summer nuisance in the community.

The owners of two gravel pits in the city have agreed to make Romulus Public Safety Director Jerry Kubiak their agent in residence to sign complaints against trespassers at either the Moore Brothers Gravel Pit and the Hayes Sand Removal Co. on Smith Road.

Located behind the shady Hollow Golf Course, the pits have been a danger to those who trespass into them, and neighbors living by them for many years, according to Mayor Terry L. Troutt.

"As you know there was a drowning there last year, and the sheriffs had to haul a stolen truck out of there during the winter," the mayor said. "In addition, there have been many loud parties late into the night at the pits over the years."

"It's something the city has to take care of for the residents."

Making Kubiak the agent at the gravel removal operations ended a problem which cropped up last year after city officials received permission from the pit operators to have the sheriff patrol the land and enforce trespassing laws.

Although several individuals were arrested there could be no prosecution of them since the pit operators were not in the area to sign complaints against them.

Under the new agreement, Kubiak can sign complaints, allowing for prosecutions of trespassers and other wrong-doers.

Only the Hayes operation is in business at this time with a small crew removing what is left of valuable sand.

The Moore Brothers operation has been shut down and fenced in for several years, however trespassers have cut their way through guarding walls to use the pits for swimming holes.

The use of the facility as a recreation area is dangerous, according to the Sheriff's Department water patrol.

When the air temperatures are in the 70s and 80s in Romulus, the water temperature in the spring-fed pits still hovers around the 49 degree mark, according to the sheriff's patrol spokesman.

"People naturally want to get out of the hot air, and they dive into that inviting water," he said. "But when a swimmer hits it, he's almost paralyzed unless he's used to it."

"It was in July last year when the thing happened last," he said. "A kid hit the water and began swimming when he just sank from the shock."

"The same fate awaits any unwitting swimmer who would use the place in the future."

Despite the problems caused by the gravel and sand removal pits, city officials in Romulus have seen them as an eventual asset to the community.

"There was an agreement signed by the township at the time of my term as supervisor and the pit operators to allow the pits to operate for 15 years," Troutt said. "That time limit will be up within a couple of years, and then the operators will be obligated to fill in the pits around the edges to make a gradual decline, and the land can be used for housing."

"Once the pits are filled a bit, the water should warm some for swimming, and then the housing which could be built around them would be the most attractive in Romulus and for miles around."

Decision favors four workers

Workers involved in a mass firing in March for "negligence" in losing a $1,200 water tapping machine assigned to their truck have been reinstated officially by an arbitrator from the Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

Four workers were ordered rehired following an arbitrator's decision last week that their firings for the loss of the $1,200 water tapping machine was too harsh a penalty.

One of the four was given a 1-day cut in pay and another was given a 5-day cut in pay in the incident by the arbitrator.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt said: "I'm disappointed but feel that justice was served."

"The arbitrator may have said our action was too harsh in firing the crew, but he left open further disciplinary action by the city if new evidence is turned up in the case of the missing equipment."

The firing of the four workers following the failure by three of them to pass a voluntary lie detector test administered by the Wayne

The employees protested the firings on the belief that their fellow employees were accused of stealing the equipment and were not given the full grievance hearing rights before their dismissal.

All the workers involved in the incident will receive back pay for the time they were illegally dismissed from their jobs.

The workers have been on the city's payroll since the end of the March wildcat walk-out.

City employees learn first aid

If there's such a thing as a "good place" to get hurt or sick, that place may be at the Romulus City Hall.

Some 20 city employees successfully have completed an 18-hour course in first aid conducted by Phil Neal, 32, a 3-year veteran of the Romulus Fire Department.

"They learned some basic first aid techniques required of city employees by federal law," said Neal, a certified first aid instructor. "It means they'll be able to handle many emergencies."

The 20 employees, secretaries and workers in the city, took the course in nine 2-hour per week sessions in the Romulus City Hall Community Room.

Among the techniques they learned were closed chest heart massage and mouth to mouth resuscitation.

"It's a chance not only for these employees to be prepared for any emergency which may occur in the City Hall, but also a chance for them to brush up on their personal safety and safety for their family," Neal said.

American dream

For two centuries citizens of the United States have worked to make the American dream, a reality, without really being able to define it.

As we look back at the origin of the dream—the American Revolution—the concept seemed to be simpler. The goal of those American citizens was simply life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

To the staunch Americans who were willing to die for that goal, the dream meant freedom from want, from fear and from oppression by King George and the British Parliament.

As the years passed the dream became more complex. To its original basic qualities some Americans now see the dream as including childhood, good family, a decent home, the ability to send children to college and, finally, enough financial resources to spend twilight years in secure comfort and dignity.

Others believe that the American dream is represented primarily by the right to speak and worship freely, to come and go as they please and to enjoy due process of law.

Whatever it means to individual citizens, it is significant to note that a recent opinion poll disclosed that most Americans believe that the American dream is within our reach.

This sense of basic confidence, which overrides the cynicism in the air, causes us to realize that the American dream actually has been constant since the Revolution, making allowances for a changing technology and a growing nation.

The Americans who declared that the United States was independent of the British shackles, for example, were not revolutionaries in the sense that we use the word today, but steadfast, sober and respectable figures who wanted majority rule and equality of opportunity.

Their aspirations were not different from our own, in any respect.

Whatever his material or philosophical aspirations if a person cannot achieve them in the United States, he cannot achieve them anywhere in the world, and he never will.

There is a footnote to this thought. While Americans have an unparalleled opportunity, their goal cannot be reached without an effort.

Whether the year is 1776, or whether it is 1975, and whether the goal is freedom of person or a car, a home and an education, it is sweat, elbow grease and determination that are the ingredients of success.

In short, the American dream is not a dream at all. It is a reality if only we have the courage to make it one.

As they see it

Jaycees to nix course zoning

To the editor: We would like to state that the Romulus Jaycees are against the rezoning of the Shady Hollow Golf Course for the purposes of building a shopping plaza and a senior citizens housing complex.

We think that Shady Hollow Golf Course provides a necessary recreational facility for this community and that every effort should be made to preserve the golf course and keep it intact.

We enthusiastically support the idea of a much needed shopping plaza and senior citizens housing project, and that the needs of this community can best be served by building this complex at another location.

Ecology minded?

To the editor: I read the article in the paper on "Who said we're ecology minded?" I live in New Boston and I have noticed these things around, like beer cans and pop cans. I said: "What is being done? Nothing!"

I did ask myself who cares, I do. I picked up cans but for what? Why people just go throw them right back down again. After reading that article, I know why because just like the rest of our society, nothing is enforced to the fullest, even our government.

I'm glad that the Department of Natural Resources is going to check into this, I think more people will be pleased to hear something is being done.

Merchant criticized

To the editor and to Mr. Rizzo: Aren't you ashamed of yourself for acting so childish over a carnival?

The full-page ad in The Belleville Enterprise May 28 certainly appeared to be a means of getting the community to feel sorry for you.

Mr. Rizzo have you taken a good look at your store lately, which by the way is almost the first thing seen as one enters Belleville. Your awnings are a disgrace, your grocery baskets are scattered all over town, the front of your store has so much clutter outside that one hardly can walk past the store.

Inside, your place of business is even worse, disorganized shelves, stock piled on the floor, constantly wet floors and an overabundance of repulsive smells means one down every aisle.

Leave the sale of shrubs to nurseries and running shoes to department stores and concentrate on food. You don't need more room, you need less clutter.

Mr. Rizzo, the carnival crowd didn't hurt your business half as much as the condition of your store has. Even though you are the most convenient grocery store in town, I for one have stopped shopping in your store because of its condition.

Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

Not everyone is enamored of the political reform bill now being thrashed out in the Legislature after being drawn up by the leadership and members of Common Cause.

The bill generally has received praise and even those who don't like it have been afraid to say too much. After all, who wants to sound like they're in favor of crooked politics? But there is one vociferous man in Lansing who has taken on sacred cows before and who is charging into the fray against this bill full steam. He is Zoltan Ferency and he says the 71-page bill is the equivalent of "burning down the church to get at a few mice."

The bill is designed to make sure third parties are frozen out of the action altogether and to weaken the structure of the two major parties by encouraging the politics of personality, he said. It will discourage competent people from running for office by requiring them to disclose all their personal financial status and will discourage people from contributing by requiring the name of every contributor of more than $15.

What's more, it ignores the real villain in modern day politics—the massive spending required by the mass media that in turn requires massive fund raising.

And Common Cause is "a bunch of political amateurs who don't know anything about politics or fund raising who have left their parlors to tinker in politics," Ferency added. "They think politics is a spectator sport."

Ferency, the 1-time Democratic state chairman, 1-time Democratic gubernatorial nominee, now active in the Human Rights Party having run for governor on its ticket last year, said Michigan's situation doesn't cry for massive reform in the first place.

"I don't think it's all that serious a situation in Michigan," he added.

"We don't have any people in Michigan that are going to jail. Why we need a 71-page bill to correct a few errors in current legislation is beyond me."

He said he has found "at least 50 specific things" wrong with the bill and starts his objections with the first line of the bill which reads: "A bill to regulate political activity."

"If that had been written by Adolf Hitler, Heinrich Himmler or Joseph Stalin we'd have been outraged," Ferency said. "Think of that—a bill to regulate political activity. But it was written by Common Cause so we're supposed to bow down and kiss it."

Ferency added that the way to correct abuses is to require free access to television for candidates and free mailing privileges to candidates.

"I don't see anything wrong with a franking privilege," he said. "The incumbents already have it. If you reduce the cost of campaigning, you reduce the need for money."

He strongly objects to the sections providing public money to the two major parties, but not to minor parties, and to the section which would give money directly to gubernatorial primary candidates. "That further weakens the political parties and eats right at the foundation of the political process," he said.

Do you know what school board does?

Okay, quickly name two members of your local school board, tell what their job is and how well they do it!

Can't do it, you say. Well, don't feel alone because most people are not familiar with this particular unit of government. To most people, the local school board is just another mysterious governmental body that you hear about when they want more money from property owners.

The average person knows that the school board—also known as the Board of Education—is there and that it is involved with public education, but it knows little more about this most basic of governmental institutions.

The depth of the public's ignorance about local school boards was found to be shockingly deep by the National School Boards Association which hired George Gallup's pollsters to survey the

...they make the decisions which affect how much a child is going to learn...

publics knowledge and attitudes on the subject.

Just a few brief statistics: In this country, there are 96,000 elected and appointed school board members who direct the nation's second largest enterprise after defense.

Here are some of the things which the Gallup interviewers found:

● When asked to name something which their local school board had done in the past year, 63 percent of the 1,500 people interviewed said they couldn't answer.

They couldn't name the one thing.

● When asked how many members their local school boards have, more than half—53 percent—said they didn't know.

● When asked about the responsibilities of the school board, 63 percent didn't know that school boards actually establish over-all school policies and don't run the schools on a day-to-day basis.

● When asked to explain the difference between the school board and the school administration, only half of the public could do it.

What the 40 pages of statistics show is that very few people are familiar with local boards of education, that very few realize or care that this is a vitally important public body which has a direct effect on their daily lives.

This group of people, most of whom are elected, are neighbors, who spend hours and hours of their spare time and without pay, making the policy for your school district. Just what does the word policy encompass, somebody asks.

Answer: It means that this group of people—they vary in number from board to board—decide what the local children are going to learn, how they are going to learn it, and from whom they are going to learn it.

They decide what type of buildings school children are to be housed in, whether the classrooms have windows, whether they are fancy or spartan and how many students go in each room.

In other words, they make the

By WES THORP
Panax Lansing Bureau

decisions which affect how much a child is going to learn and how well he's going to learn it.

These decisions will affect that student you were thinking about hiring as a clerk, but who you found barely can read or write, or maybe one of your children who has his heart set on becoming a doctor, but never will be able to because the school district doesn't offer the right science courses.

And, for those concerned about the size of their property tax bills, the local school boards have a drastic effect on those.

In periodic elections, the Board of Education asks for varying amounts of money from local property owners. It can be a small amount, but more often than not, it is a sizeable chunk of money which makes you a major investor in the school system.

Mural shows art interests of 8th grade

An eighth grader's enthusiasm for art will be looking down on others, when he completes a mural in North Junior High School's library.

Jim Kuhr, the son of Patricia Kuhr of 7659 Marlowe Road, Belleville, started painting the mural prior to last Christmas, and according to art teacher Joann Herkimer, despite his impatience, he "has done a very beautiful, meticulously painted mural."

Jim reportedly gave up some school functions to work on his painting, including many hours in and out of school.

Miss Herkimer added that the teen-ager's reward will be signing his name to the mural and seeing and feeling the great accomplishment.

Responses slow for assistance

Only two residents have responded to the Belleville-Van Buren Jaycees' request for names of needy persons who either could use help in painting their homes or a basket of food to help them through troubled times.

The Belleville Enterprise carried a story on the Jaycee program two weeks ago, detailing the help the residents could receive.

Jaycee Volunteers will embark on a paint-up, cleanup campaign at a home of some individual who either is incapacitated or unable to afford improvement to his property.

In addition, the Jaycees will donate food to a family in need.

Persons who wish to nominate individuals for help can write to the Jaycees in care of James Callow, 142 Second St., Belleville 48111.

Residents can meet officials

Romulus residents are invited to meet with their elected officials at a Citizens' Open Forum scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight at the Mt. Pleasant Elementary School, 39000 Superior St., Romulus.

Members of the Romulus City Council and the Romulus City administration will be on hand to discuss the concerns of the citizens in the community.

All area residents are invited to attend.

Youngsters compete in twirling contest

Girls from throughout Michigan participated in the recent World Baton Twirling Association meet and modeling contest, sponsored by the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Committee.

Held May 31 at the North Junior High School, the contest featured baton demonstrations in several age categories.

Winners in the contest were Nicki Jones of Ypsilanti, Lisa MacPherson of Port Huron, Shawn Burdock of Detroit, Anna Tomick of Carlton, Lori Medwick of Warren, Ohio, and Nancy Ames of Dearborn.

CONTEST WINNERS—Girls ranging in age from the early teens to less than 6 years of age took honors in the annual World Twirling Association Baton and modeling contest, sponsored by the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Committee. Winners in the contest were Kim Medwick (from left), Maureen Jarrait, Nancy Ames, Lori Mac Pherson Kim Pillera, Earlet Phillips, Tracie Medwick and Lisa MacPherson. The contest is one of many programs proposed by the Bicentennial group to raise funds for Van Buren Township activities during the celebration of America's 200th Anniversary of independence.

Hundreds of residents turned out for the event. Proceeds from admissions will go to Bicentennial programs, including the July 4 parade scheduled for this year.

Besides sponsoring the baton contest, the Bicentennial Committee is readying itself for a weekly Wednesday Bingo at the Van Buren Township Hall.

Initial plans are to begin the contest within two weeks.

The July 4 parade, the first in the township's history, will be a "community event," featuring free balloons for the first 200 youngsters who show up and a distribution of prizes donated by local businesses and Detroit sports teams.

The parade route will be along Ecorse Road between Beck and Belleville roads.

Featured along the route will be displays and special game booths, manned by service organizations.

Floats to be entered in the parade will be built by civic organizations, including the Van Buren Senior Citizens Club.

Residents are invited to make a "day of it" in Van Buren by taking in the parade in the morning and the annual Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce and Belleville-Van Buren Jaycees-sponsored water show and fireworks display.

The chamber coordinates the annual show, which features a water skiing display by the Belleville Lake Ski Club and a fireworks display.

Students practice what they learn with mall

'Shopping center' shows off career education

For students attending Mt. Pleasant Elementary School, learning about industry and business was only part of the program. The final results was the operation of a shopping mall. On May 29, the school, that operated the Ram Chargers Assembly Plant and the Mt. Pleasant Industries, was turned into a shopping mall.

Dahoney nets Albion degree

A Belleville resident was among 357 students at Albion College in Albion, Mich., to receive their diplomas during recent commencement exercises at the college.

James R. Donahey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Donahey of 47765 Denton Road, was awarded his degree during the ceremony. He majored in economics and business administration while at the college.

Kindergarten through sixth grade rooms were transformed into a flower shop, bakery, restaurant and a jewelry store among others.

As an accumulating activity for a year-long career education project at Mt. Pleasant School in Romulus, the students, teachers, para-professionals and parents all adopted the role of the working force to carry on the everyday activities for a large shopping center.

Much planning and hard work went into the preparation of this activity which involved, in many cases, making the products to be sold, ordering the materials, learning and-or teaching skills, and visiting enterprises to pickup ideas for running a particular job.

For example, Unit 2 visited a bakery to get tips on mass production baking. Unit 3 visited local florists for their ideas for the Planet of the Plants Flower Shop and Unit 5 visited a Mexican restaurant in preparation for their La Mexicano Cafe.

Teachers also met with the manager of the Southland Mall and three department heads from Hudson's Southland to go over methods of running a mall.

The mall officially opened at 11 a.m. on May 29th, for students attending Mt. Pleasant to shop in their fellow students' stores.

The summary of response for the turnout was tremendous for the evening hours with a continuous stream of parents, students, and interested adults filing past the "security force" into the shopping center.

Romulus Community Schools was selected as one of five school districts to pilot the Michigan State model of the Career Education Program which will be implemented throughout the state next year.

The shopping mall project involved everyone in the school. It included all students — kindergarten through the sixth grade plus the Type A rooms, and all staff members including the art, music, physical education, instrumental music and classroom teachers, the learning specialist and helping teacher and the principal.

The list of the shops and manager were For You, For Me Jewelry, Paul

Witherow; Pitch a Penny, Dip a Dime Arcade, Paul Witherow; Pictorial Museum, Denelda moss; Adam's Way Stationery, Gwen Marks; The Mr. Thing Nook, Steven Rodd; The Pleasant Movie Theater, Richard Berry; Planet of the Plants, Robert Sheldon; Ding Dong

Bakery, Dwayne Cornett; The Open Door by Unit 4, James Sheldon, and La Mexicano Cafe, Mike Deleon.

County disputes sewer service rate increase

A committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has demanding additional supporting data before it will consider proposed increases in wholesale sewage treatment rates charged to 13 communities, including Huron Township. The 7-member Public Works Committee called for more information when the proposed rate increases were presented at a recent committee meeting.

The rate hikes were recommended by the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC), which operates the county sewage treatment system. Approval of the committee, which serves as a board of review, is required.

Compilation of the requested information is expected to take up to three weeks, said Commissioner John Lesinski, the panel chairman. A meeting to consider the data will be scheduled after the information is received.

Thirteen suburbs in Wayne and Macomb counties are served by the county sewage disposal system. They are charged by the county and in turn include a charge for the service in local water bills.

George R. Bingham, County Sanitary Engineer, said rate boosts are necessary to offset increased costs.

In the northeast area, the increased costs include a 50 percent sewage treatment rate hike imposed by the

Metropolitan Detroit Water Department (MDWD), effective Sept. 1. At the request of Commissioner Tom F. Taylor (D-Westland), the committee decided to ask the MDWD for data justifying that rate increase.

In the northeast area, county-owned sewers connect to the Detroit sewers which carry wastewater for treatment in Detroit plants.

The present county charge of $92.92 per million gallons for transporting the wastewater would be increased to $140.96 under the proposed hikes.

Belleville man Called suspect

A 29-year-old Belleville man has been charged with armed robbery in the holdup of a Westland store. Kenneth John Ressler was arraigned last Wednesday and is being held in the Wayne County Jail with bond set at $25,000.

Examination is scheduled for June 9 in 18th District Court, Westland. Ressler allegedly held up a 7-11 store at 160 Venov Road at 2:10 a.m. June 4, taking approximately $500 from a cash register, an employee and a customer, according to Westland Police.

He allegedly brandished a .38 caliber revolver during the robbery, police said.

Ressler was arrested in Romulus after a witness to the holdup supplied police with a license number of the robber's auto. The holdup weapon allegedly was thrown from the auto before it was stopped by police, but was found later.

Church opens summer rite

The Bethany Baptist Church, located at 810 E. Huron River Drive, will begin its sixth summer season of Sunday evening drive-in programs.

The popular concept of a church service is growing throughout the country, and worshippers may come dressed casually to enjoy a musical program and gospel preaching in the comfort of their car.

Visiting recording artists from throughout the Midwest will provide the vocal and instrumental music from an outdoor platform directed to the car from a large public address system.

The Rev. John Losen has invited the public to share in the service at 6 p.m. Sundays.

Cooperation earmarks cleanup of Romulus

Public cooperation was the earmark of the recently completed Romulus cleanup campaign. Headed by Council President Pro Tem Joan A. Lee, the 2-month cleanup marked a policing of virtually every roadside in the city and cooperation from landowners to make Romulus a more eye-appealing place to live. Groups participating in the campaign included the Romulus Boy Scouts, the Romulus Girl Scouts and the two organizations young adjuncts, the Brownie and Cub Scout movements. Mrs. Lee, who hopes the cleanup campaigns can be scrapped in favor of forming a city beautification commission, said the program couldn't have continued without the help of the youthful participants.

"From planting flowers in public places to leafletting neighborhoods to insure that all persons know of the campaign, the work of the youngsters demonstrates what is good with youth, and shows a pride all Romulus citizens should take in their community," Mrs. Lee added. "I personally want to thank all the youngsters and adults who helped make this effort a success."

In conjunction with the voluntary cleanup campaign by the youth civic groups and interested residents, employees hired with federal funds were used to police roadsides. Several tons of litter were removed by city crews after the employees, hired through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act filled plastic bags with the trash. Despite the official end of the cleanup campaign June 1, Mrs. Lee hopes people in Romulus continue to do the work on their own.

"This isn't so much a cleanup effort as an effort to show outsiders that the people of the city have pride in Romulus," Mrs. Lee said. "Nothing shows it more than to show casual visitors clean surroundings as they enter the city on business, or just pass through. We want people to remember Romulus as the cleanest community they've seen, and I think we're making good headway."

LETTING THEM KNOW—Armed with leaflets and related material scouts from throughout Romulus not only helped clean up the city, but informed residents of the 2-month long effort. The scouts gathered together to collect the materials for distribution before heading out into the community to spread the word.

Stuart's fashion show set for Father's Day

Fashions, music and Father's Day will share the spotlight Sunday at the Ramada Inn, 8270 Wickham Road, Romulus. "Squire's" restaurant and lounge will be the setting for a showing of styles from Stuart's Apparel Shops of Wayne and Lincoln Park.

Current summer styles will be featured, casuals, separates, pant ensembles, long fashions for home entertaining and dining out, will be featured in the show, along with an advance look at the fall fashion scene. Music for the 7:30 p.m. showing will be offered by Marvin Kahn, proprietor of Stuart's for the past 30 years, who was well known in the 1930s and 1940s as leader of the "Tommy Marvin Band." Kahn will make his "comeback" in show business at the combined fashion show and jazz concert, with Howard Lucas, a well known musician, at the piano, as they present sounds of the big band era.

Fashions from Stuart's will be modeled, with commentary by Jane Stillwell of Stuart's, Lincoln Park.

Those attending have a choice of three dinners — steak, fish and chicken — and reservations may be made by calling 729-6300.

Tickets for the showing are available at Stuart's of Wayne, and at the Lincoln Park fashion specialty shop. Tickets purchased in advance at Stuart's include a free bottle of champagne with their dinner.

Scouts sell 'rama' tickets

Net prize for efforts

Belleville Cub Scout Pack 793 of St. Anthony's Church has proven their knack at selling tickets collecting 50 free passes to Bob-Lo Island after selling the second highest number of tickets for the recent Scout-a-Rama held at the State Fairgrounds.

The pack did so well with ticket sales that they were the second highest unit in the entire Detroit area on April 17 and maintained their position in second place for total sales on May 17 that mark earned them a brand new bike to be presented to the high salesman in the pack.

James Brasington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brasington, won the bicycle with total sales of 105 tickets.

In second place for total sales was Grant Memering the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Memering, which earned him a variety of camping equipment. The boys who have sold tickets also qualify for a weekly drawing and Karl Duda the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duda, won a rod and reel in the drawing. Advancements for May were James Monforton, Bear; James Brasington and Brian Innes silver arrow; Tom Lindemann Ken Duda and Paul Innes scientist; Paul Innes engineer; Ken Duda, Tom Lindemann and Paul Innes Arrow of Light—the highest honor in Cub Scouting. Douglas Traskos and Paul Innes crossed over the bridge from Cub Scouting into Boy Scouts.

READY TO PERFORM—These pre-teen dancers of the Jan Oliver Dance class are readying themselves for a recital scheduled for Friday and Saturday in the Belleville High School Auditorium. Sponsored by the Harrison Elementary School PTO, the recital's proceeds will be JUST IMAGINE — Interior design of kitchen (eating area shown) started with strawberry print fabric picked for bench cushions, draperies. The numerous shades of green and red in the fruit and leaves of the strawberry plant gave the designer a ready-made color scheme.

To make it work

Here's interior design trick

Home & Garden

Every profession has its tricks of the trade, and interior designing is no exception.

It helps to know how a professional goes about creating an eye-pleasing room starting with a promising but empty shell. Useful insights can be gained that amateurs can adapt for our own homes.

Often the hardest part simply is getting started. "Where do I begin?" Well, you can begin with strawberries.

That's what prominent interior designer Carleton Varney did in one kitchen. A hundred other things would have served as well as strawberries for a starting point. The important thing is to latch onto some object or idea that kindles the imagination and can be developed into a full-blown decorating treatment.

Here's how the technique works:

The color scheme is ready-made in the colors of the fruit and leaves of the strawberry plant: refreshing, cool greens in a multiplicity of tones from light to dark and varying shades of red, including luscious strawberry pink.

The built-in bench next to the trestle table in the kitchen eating area has seat cushions covered in a strawberry print fabric that mingles reds, greens and shades of off-white. The back cushions are done in the same fabric, which is repeated in the draperies at the window.

Potted geraniums adorn the windowsill. The cushions of the Thomasville chairs are upholstered in crisp green and white.

From plants to trees is a natural move, so plenty of wood goes into the room. The rustic furniture, kitchen cabinets and paneled walls are mellow and rich. Dark-stained, the wood could give the room a somber look, but the large window admits generous amounts of light.

To brighten the room further, the designer chooses white appliances, countertops, ceramic tile behind the stove and a flooring in a natural-looking white brick pattern. The glistening surface of the floor catches every ray of sunshine.

The natural-look theme is taking definite form.

Need growing room? Expand into garage

As children progress from toddlers to teens a family needs more elbow room. You could add on to your present house, but a recent nationwide survey estimates that it costs between $18 and $30 per square foot to add a room at ground level, not including interior decorating. This totals $3,240 to $5,400 for building costs alone for a 12 by 15 foot family room.

But you can reduce this expense considerably by converting an attached garage into a recreation area. Get advice from a building supply dealer, builder or professional designer. Then do most of the work yourself.

Decorating with bright, cheerful colors is conducive to family fun. It also helps compensate for the lack of light in most garages, which usually have small windows at best.

An electric fireplace provides heat and adds to the cozy atmosphere.

Convenience is a top priority in the family room. Including a dining table, serving facilities and an inexpensive portable refrigerator saves family members countless trips to and from the kitchen.

Memories of the room's other life as an oil-stained parking lot fade quickly as family members and guests enter the room, that can have a brightly striped canopy. Thoughtful arrangement of functional furniture allows a wide range of activities—from quiet chats in front of the fireplace to rousing contests.

There may be a family room hidden in your home. Garages, porches, basements and seldom-used dining rooms are potential recreation areas. With today's variety of inexpensive and durable wall panelings, and budget priced furniture, creative decorating need not be costly. The priceless ingredient is imagination.

Know what you buy

When remodeling, homeowners generally know what they want. But, they don't always know how to get it.

In kitchen remodeling, for example, choice of appliances, location of cabinets and work areas, and selection of wall and floor coverings are best determined by family size and lifestyles and the cooking and housekeeping habits of the homemaker. Implementing these needs and preferences, however, may require professional help. Assistance in these areas is available from a certified kitchen designer. The National Kitchen Cabinet Association (NKCA) says homeowners should make their ideas sufficiently clear to professional remodelers they hire to do the work. On the other hand, they should seek professional advice, when needed, on jobs they intend to handle themselves.

NKCA notes that do-it-yourselfers are taking on an increasing number of remodeling chores. A principal reason for this is the availability of building products and materials that are prefinished, ready-to-install, and carry the manufacturer's assurance of quality and durability. An example of quality assurance is the NKCA certification seal. It's carried by kitchen cabinets and bathroom vanities that meet construction and performance standards of the American National Standards Institute. To qualify for the seal, cabinets and vanities must pass or exceed a variety of tough tests that measure their ability to withstand the hard use of everyday conditions.

Team misses squad

For the first time in over a decade, Belleville High's baseball team failed to be represented on an all-conference squad.

The 1975 Suburban 8 Conference was dominated by Plymouth Salem, the newly-crowned league champ. Coach Wayne Sparkman placed three of his players on the first team and four on the second.

Here is the league's first team lineup: pitchers Tom Willette (Salem) and Bruce Fournier (Allen Park); catcher Dale Mason (Dearborn); first base Mike Fregonara (Allen Park) and infielders Dave Pierce (Plymouth Salem), Glenn Stevens (Livonia Bentley), Bob Knoop (Dearborn) and Phil Beyer (Allen Park).

The coaches' choices for the first string outfield were Doug Tripp (Plymouth Salem), Dan Dinsmore (Livonia Bentley), Dean Milos (Allen Park) and Craig Wood (Redford Union).

The second team staff included pitchers Jim VanderHull (Dearborn) and Mark Phiede (Edsel Ford); catcher Al Johnson (Edsel Ford) and infielders George Willard (Redford Union), Dave Bartlett (Edsel Ford), Charlie Johnson (Plymouth Salem), Howard Inch (Salem) and Tim Wancha (Edsel Ford).

The outfielders are Dennis Sartor (Dearborn), Jim Hughes (Edsel Ford), John DenHouter (Plymouth Salem) and Dan Moore (Plymouth Salem).

Honorable mention was awarded to Chuck Thomas (Plymouth Salem) and Vern Nagle.

Baseball tryouts set

Belleville, Romulus and New Boston baseball players who feel they have pro potential will have a chance to prove it later this month.

The major league scouting bureau, which has combed the country looking for talent in preparation for the free agent draft, now will conduct tryouts camps for players who were not eligible or not selected.

Fifteen tryout camps will be conducted by bureau scouts Tony Stiel and Bill Schudlich in Michigan from June 16 through July 9.

The camps will be open to all players ages 16 to 21 and will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at each site. Local ball players should pack their gloves and shoes and head for Ann Arbor's Memorial Field on June 16.

American Legion players must have written permission from either their coach or post commander in order to participate.

Publications available for volunteer coaches

The Athletic Institute recently has completed a series of publications aimed at the volunteer coach of youth league programs.

According to Fred Engh, National Consultant For Youth Programs at the Athletic Institute, "For years the individual who has volunteered his or her time acting as a youth league coach has had little information on the many responsibilities involved in coaching community sports teams for young people.

"For that reason, we have developed a series of publications in baseball, football, basketball, ice hockey, soccer, and girl's softball. We feel the publications which include more than 400 photos defining all the responsibilities of the youth league coach will be a major step in aiding the literally millions of adults who become involved in their church, civic, public, or private organizations teams every year."

"Coaching Youth League Football" which includes an introductory statement from Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins was the first publication completed by the Athletic Institute.

It includes items such as defining who the volunteer coach is, care of athletic injuries, proper fitting of equipment, physical exams and many other areas specifically related to the role of the volunteer.

In addition there are more than 100 photo-filled pages outlining the various skills and drills involved in teaching the game of football.

For information, write the Athletic Institute, 705 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Village Sound victorious

Dave Billings' home run powered Village Sound to a 10-7 slo-pitch softball victory over Kay-Fresh Party Store in the Ypsilanti National Slo-Pitch Softball League.

The victory evened up Village Sound's record to 3-3 on the season.

A tight game up to the third inning, Billings' home run gave Village some breathing room. In that third, Steve Billings led off with a single and moved to second when Terry Pate also singled.

Then Dave Billings drilled an opposite field home run to put Village out in front for good. Marty Miller followed with a base hit and he moved to second on a ground out and scored when Rick Refirt also connected for a base hit.

Village Sound will be back in action at 10:30 p.m. tomorrow, clashing with Walker's Photography at Harris Road Park in Ypsilanti.

AUTO FACTS

by Jr. Kosin

If your brakes fail, first pump them hard. Often you can build up enough pressure this way to get back at least partial braking. Shift to a lower gear, permitting the engine to help slow your car. Look for a safe place to guide your car. Even a brake loss on downhill grade does not have to be serious. You can use your parking brake if it is the lever type that is set by hand. Be careful to apply it rhythmically, however.

Complete machine shop repair service for foreign and domestic cars, including turning brake drums and valve work, is available at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS. 26831 Michigan, Inkster. We specialize in auto parts for Toyota, Fiat, Opel, Datsun, Volkswagen and other foreign cars, as well as all domestic cars. Our huge inventory includes everything from mufflers to fan belts and from bearings to spark plugs. We also have the tools you need to do the job. Expert mechanics in our machine shop handle all types of repair service; we offer fast, friendly and expert counter service on all parts. Call us at 363-3894. We are open weekdays until 8 p.m.

AUTO FACTS: Fire in the car? An extinguisher or a heavy blanket should be carried with you at all times for such emergencies.

Our Gang wins

League play underway, despite weather

The girls in the Romulus Softball League came out swinging last week. The 25-team league broken down into two divisions, got underway despite inclement weather.

Our Gang won its opener, taking a 16-12 decision from the Shakers as Alison Ziembowicz connected for six hits and batted in five runs for the winners. Miss Ziembowicz' teammates Brenda Williams, Jean Ramey, and Carol Anderson each had excellent first game performances at the plate. Janet Vail homered for the losers who also received excellent defense from Dolly Parrish, Sherry Skinner, and Cuca Welgosh. Each also had two hits. Meanwhile, the Whiz Kids shot down the Airline Bombers 9-6 in their opener. Sue Wintz, Jeanne Bodemiller, Mary McClean and Sue Fritz paced the winner's attack.

Sherry Hensley drilled a homer for the Bombers, while Vickie Wyzykowski and Janet Slater each tripled in a losing cause. The "Spirit of '76" started the season off with a 10-5 victory over the Electric Warriors. Angie Hicks sparkled on defense, while Sylvia Dubisky, Joey Hopson and Marce McCrory each had two hits.

Nancy Swazey and Margaret Ayers paced the losers, splitting four hits between them. Debbie Owens stood out on defense for the Warriors.

The Odd Squad took up where it left off last year, winning an easy 17-0 verdict—the first shutout of the year—from the Seekers.

Debbie Wilcox smacked two home runs and amassed seven RBI's. Also hot with a bat were Bertha Sterling and Pat Holcomb who each had four hits.

Buzz Troop marched past the Bulls 14-7 as Terrie Richardson blasted two home runs. Teammates Janet Hargrove, Robbie Williams and Lorraine Weber combined for 12 hits between them.

The Bulls' main thrust came in the form of Carol Fehmie's bat. Miss Fehmie collected three hits and counted three runs batted in. Teammate Joyce McLeod doubled twice.

In another shut out, the Kid Power unleashed an awesome hitting attack to humble Kel-Joys 22-0. Vicky Grey, Tina Wilson, Dea Patterson and Kim Pitts divided 14 home runs between them.

Doreen Nichols and Maggie Abdoe each had two hits for the winners.

A home run by Cathy Rollins, Cherry Sanders and Sharon Priestaf's two hits were wasted by the losers.

The Hustlers got past the SWAT 11-9 as Sheryl Kennedy drilled a triple and couple of singles for the winners. Kathy Kwek, Tammy Akens and Tammy Roberts each checked in with two singles.

Miss Roberts also played a superb defensive in the outfield.

Charlene Cole, Linda Weber, Paula Dahlstrom and Andrea Melchi all had at least two hits for SWAT.

In one of the lowest scoring games of the season's opener, the 69ers pulled out a cliffhanging 3-2 victory over the New Streakers.

Lisa Zbikowski was the winning pitcher. Teammate Estella Graham contributed three hits and one RBI. The Streakers responded with stellar performances from Yvonne Randall who helped pull off a double play, Faye Savage, Bess Lankford and Cathy Dettloff who each singled.

On the opposite side of the scoring spectrum, Chocolate City turned back the Bleepers 30-3.

Rhonda Peters, Debra Hancock, Tanya Garner and Theresa Gibson were instrumental in scoring 16 of the 30 runs.

The Bleepers' best efforts came from Dods

Kalis, Louise Kalis, Bernie Daly and Connie McGee who each had two hits.

The Rookies found out they were no match for 2001 which won its opener 13-7. Setting the pace for the winners were Linda Fee who had four hits, Cindy Crawford, Sharon Howie and Audrey Szyndler each had a pair of hits.

Sally Carroll, Carol Wallace and Diane Rithaler starred for the losers.

The women's softball games are played Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons at Cory Elementary, Romulus Junior and Senior High Schools.

The public is invited, and there is no admission charge.

Dinghy plans available

There probably is no better way to loaf, without attracting unfavorable attention and criticism, than to go fishing. Besides that, it's educational since it teaches patience.

Since a boat is essential for most fishing activities, here's an all-purpose plywood dinghy. It's handy for yachtsmen who need a strong, seaworthy craft or for the sportsman who needs a lightweight car-top boat.

This one is easy for youngsters to row, yet sturdy enough for a small outboard motor. Because of the light weight, only 79 pounds, it's suitable for hunters as well as fishermen.

With all these features, this little dinghy is simple enough in design for even a beginner to tackle when he uses the easy-to-follow plan. Along with simple directions, the plan has numerous photos and diagrams showing all stages of construction.

To obtain the plan No. 399 for building the plywood pram dinghy shown here, send $2.25 (includes postage and handling). If airmail is desired, send $2.50 by cash, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Associated Newspapers Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

For motorboat owners

Safety check necessary

Fresh water lakes are a big attraction to Michigan's 533,977 motorboat owners, but before they take to the water in search of adventure and relaxation, a thorough safety check-out is in order.

Just getting the boat to the water involves risk, so first make sure the trailer brake lights are in working order, even if it's only "a short trip." It's not worth ruining the boating season with a rear-end collision before it gets underway.

Coast Guard boating accident statistics provide an unfortunate reminder of what can go wrong once you're out on the water: fires, explosions and collisions can cause capsizing and drownings. Lives and property are lost and summers are ruined.

In 1974, Coast Guard statistics show, there were 5,104 boating accidents involving 1,446 lives lost, 993 injuries and property damage of more than $9 million in the U.S.

Michigan, with 7.8 percent of all U.S. registered boats, reported 320 accidents, 69 deaths and 62 injuries, plus property damage of $348,700.

Three critical systems—fuel, electrical and steering—should be checked and maintained in better than working order. The boater should:

- Check exhaust and intake pipes for blockages and clean them thoroughly.
- Examine all fuel and electrical connections to see that they're tight.
- Check lines and steering cables for wear and fraying.

—Clean and lubricate all working parts, and check their housings and supports.

The hull itself should be inspected for cracks indicating strain or structural weakness. All checks, blocks and fittings must be soundly anchored and in good order.

An expert eye can be helpful. The Coast Guard Auxiliary, as part of its Courtesy Motorboat Examination, upon request, will provide a thorough safety check of the boat's general condition and equipment, covering both federal and state law and additional criteria that have been adopted by the auxiliary.

Universities to study youth sports program

The nation's first long-range study of youth sports programs is well on its way with representatives from three major Michigan universities playing an important role in its direction.

The Michigan Legislative Study Committee on Youth Sports Programs met at the Lansing Capitol recently with faculty from Michigan State University, Wayne

State University, and the University of Michigan to finalize plans for an investigation of youth sports programs in Michigan.

Each university will scientifically choose 30 communities for study. The study which is expected to run until the end of 1976, will survey youth sports programs in those locales, collecting data via personal interviews and mailed questionnaires.

WORKS LIKE A BEAVER — Although she's a member of the Girl Scout organization, Julie Rosinski literally worked like a beaver to write off every single badge in her junior handbook. And that involved 47 different categories, earning her accolades from her troop since she was the first to ever complete the task at Quirk Elementary School. Julie, (center) receives congratulations from her co-leaders, Norma Lee Wood (left) and Linda Marcum, of Troop 587.

Girl Scout earns 47 badges for 'first'

When it comes to Girl Scouts, Julie Anne Rosinski spells the words in capital letters since scouting is "her thing." A member of Junior Troop 587 of Quirk Elementary School, Julie is completing her third year of junior scouting and has earned all 47 badges in the handbook.

She is the first member of her troop and the first at her school to ever achieve that goal. A sixth grader in Donna Hidenfelter's class, Julie joined Girl Scouts at age 7 as a Brownie. After two years, she "flew up" to her present troop saying farewell to her leaders, La-

Donna Bauer and Joan Monforton.

Julie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rosinski of Jackson Street, Belleville, and is the oldest of their five children. A member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, she received the Girl Scout Catholic Award after completing six months of requirements in October 1974. She also has attended Girl Scout camp, the past two summers at Camp Linden where she added to her scouting experiences.

She is in hopes of gaining still more experience through the Explorer Post 1351 of Romulus where she has been a member since February. Her troop leaders this year are Linda Marcum and Normalee Wood.

After having undergone surgery at Beyer Hospital, The Rev. Joy Arthur of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville, is now convalescing at the parsonage on High Street.

Royal Oak church setting for Flavell-Nowacek vows

Richard Thomas Flavell and his bride, the former Debra Ann Nowacek, are making their home at 1111 S. Harris Rd., Apt. 207, Ypsilanti, since returning from a 10-day honeymoon in Florida.

The couple exchanged double ring vows in an 8 p.m. ceremony at St. John's Methodist Church in Royal Oak. Two ministers, The Rev. Dee W. Cobb of St. John's and Pastor John Siefken of Prince of Glory Lutheran Church, officiated the May 3 rite.

Music was played by Mildred Hyde at the organ and Woodrow English on the trumpet.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nowacek of 300 Edmund, Royal Oak, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flavell of 43 S. Biggs St., Belleville, are parents of the young couple.

For her wedding day, the bride chose to wear a full length gown designed with a high lace neckline and long, full lace cuffed sleeves. Her floor length mantilla veil was edged with a wide border of matching lace. Completing her ensemble was a colonial bouquet of white daisies, roses and orchids.

The bridal coterie, headed by the honor maid, Dawn Nowacek, sister of the bride, was identically gowned in pale blue frocks fashioned with high necklines and long, cuffed sleeves. Their bouquets were comprised of yellow roses and white daisies.

The quintet of bridesmaids included Sandy Vasu of Ypsilanti, Mary Dylewski of Clawson, Mrs. Bruce Nowacek of Clawson, sister-in-law of the bride, Patricia Flavell of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, and Margaret Kronbach of Ypsilanti.

Robert Tator of Belleville was asked to be best man. Ushers were John Petrasky and the bridegroom's cousin, David Hamilton, both of Belleville, and Bruce Nowacek of Clawson, Frederick Flavell of Belleville and Gregg Nowacek of Royal Oak, all brothers of the bride. The bride's 10-year old brother, Thomas Nowacek, was junior usher.

Mrs. Nowacek wore for her daughter's wedding a blue, long-sleeved turtle neck gown. The bridegroom's mother donned a floral gown in shades of gold, green and white. Both were presented with corsages of yellow roses.

The reception which followed was held at Timberland Hall.

Catherine Lorenz is bride

Newlyweds living in Ypsilanti

St. Steven's Catholic Church in New Boston was the setting for the recent marriage of Catherine A. Lorenz of Belleville and Steven C. Watson of Jackson.

The Rev. Alexander Wytral read the double ring rite which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lorenz of 21820 Haggerty Road, Belleville, and the son of Martel H. Watson of 1221 Highland Blvd., Jackson, and the late Alyce M. Watson.

For the May 10 nuptials, the altar was adorned with two vases of blue and white daisies. Dorothy Roberts was at the organ to accompany Jerry Klaes as he sang "The Wedding Song", "Sunrise, Sunset" and "Ode to Joy."

The afternoon ceremony began as the bride approached the sanctuary with her father. She carried a colonial bouquet of fugi poms, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy accented with small rhinestone hearts.

Her silk organza wedding gown had a high ruffled neckband above the sheer illusion bodice of beaded Alencon lace. The ruffle motif was repeated on the long Juliet sleeves and again above the flounced hemline and chapel train.

Her English veil drifted to chapel length from a lace beaded cap which she had made.

Preceding the bride up the aisle were her maid of honor, Caroline Michalski, a lifelong friend and neighbor; Kathleen Bailey of Houghton, her college roommate; Kathy Louise Lorenz of Romulus, a cousin, and Helen Thibault of Dearborn, a high school friend.

The group wore blue polyester A-line dresses with fitted bodices and sheer floral print capes to cover the low backs. Their white picture hats were encircled with matching floral print scarves and their bouquets contained blue carnations, white daisy poms with blue centers, purple status and baby's breath.

Six-year old Christine Lorenz was her sister's flowergirl and 10-year old Lorraine Lorenz her sister's junior bridesmaid. Their frocks were styled with blue polyester bodices and floral print skirts. They wore floral wreaths in their hair and carried bouquets to match the senior attendants.

A cousin of the bridegroom, David Domzal of Toledo, carried out the duties of best man. Ushers were Michael W. Lorenz of Trenton, brother of the bride; Gerald Carney of Jackson, a childhood friend and college roommate of the groom, and another college friend, William Bieswinger of Jackson.

At the reception in the P.N.A. Hall of Belleville, the 250 guests were greeted by Mrs. Lorenz wearing a peach polyester gown with a companion jacket accented with crystal beading. The bridegroom's mother donned a yellow polyester gown. Both were honored with corsages of pale blue carnations and baby's breath.

Vickie Palmer married in morning service at Methodist Church

Freeport in the Bahamas was the honeymoon destination for the newlywed Terry A. Bowers who are now making their home in Grand Blanc, Mich. at 6005 Blvd. of Corners Four, Apt. 10.

Vicki Lee Palmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Palmer of 128 Clarence St., Belleville, became Mrs. Bower in a May 24 ceremony at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville. The Rev. Joy E. Arthur presided at the 10:30 a.m. nuptials before some 120 assembled guests.

For the double-ring rite, the altar was appointed with long stemmed white roses and baby's breath with matching roses entwined around the candelabras. Single white rosebuds also were placed in each window of the sanctuary.

Music for the occasion was played on the harp by Anita Stark of Windsor, Ont.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in an ivory qiana jersey gown designed with a V-neckline and padded shoulders topstitched in ivory thread to match the wide cuffs which accented the long, full sleeves. The toe-touching, full skirt flared into a brief train as she walked.

A wreath of ivory silk flowers and dried baby's breath secured her floor length veil and three long stemmed white roses and baby's breath completed her bridal finery.

As her sister's maid of honor, Cynthia Palmer of Belleville donned an ice blue qiana gown featuring a choir boy neckline, pleated shoulders and cuffs and an inverted V waistband.

Another sister, Kim Palmer of Belleville, was bridesmaid along with Ellen Bower of Romeo and Mrs. Bruce Bower of Dallas, Texas, sister and sister-in-law, respectively of the bridegroom.

Wearing frocks styled identically to the honor maid's, the trio was in peach, mint green and pale yellow and carried wicker heartside baskets containing baby's breath and silk flowers to match each dress.

The bridegroom, in whose apartment the couple now are living, is the son of Mrs. Merlin Kerr and the late Allan Bower. He chose his brother, Bruce E. Bower of Dallas, Texas, to serve as best man. Groomsmen were Dan Palmer and Brian Palmer, brothers of the bride, and Douglas Posey of Romeo.

The luncheon reception which followed was held at Weber's Inn of Ann Arbor with 100 relatives and friends attending.

The new Mrs. Bower graduated from Belleville High School in 1970 and from Michigan State University in 1974. She currently is employed at The Vogue in Flint.

Her husband is a 1965 graduate of Romeo High School and a 1969 alumnus of Michigan Technological University. He is an employee of Texaco Inc. of Flint.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held at the Airport Hilton Inn of Romulus.

Michigan: Shorelines beckon

Lighthouses, museums, islands, scenic marvels, prehistoric paintings and modern sources of energy all beckon Michigan's Great Lakes shoreline travelers to tarry.

The state's shoreline attractions are unique and more varied than those offered by any other state or Canadian province bordering the Great Lakes.

Great Lakes commerce is highlighted at Muskegon. That city became Lake Michigan's largest port with completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway, and many foreign ships now end trips there. Muskegon's Seaway Festival is set this year for June 27 to July 6.

Ludington, a popular resort center, has its share of glory as Lake Michigan's busiest ferry port. Three auto-passenger ferries make two round-trips daily starting in late May to Milwaukee and Manitowoc, Wis.

Electricity is another Lake Michigan industrial notable. Five miles below South Haven is a Consumers nuclear power plant. The Palisades plant suspended public visits, but it can be viewed from the outside while exploring the lakeshore near South Haven.

For a free lakeshore souvenir, go north for Petoskey stones, a longtime favorite of rockhounds. They are abundant along the beach near Petoskey and are Michigan's official stone.

If marine museums have appeal, tourists will find they abound along the Great Lakes.

Douglas' boast is a floating marine museum, the S.S. Keewatin, which once carried passengers on Georgian Bay and Lake Superior cruises. The ship's former splendor has been restored and visitors may tour the onetime lakes queen now berthed on Lake Michigan.

The Motor City's museum overlooks the Detroit River from Belle Isle, and the Dossin Great Lakes Museum's pride is the restored ornate salon of the City of Detroit III, once the most lavish Great Lakes passenger vessel.

The Museum of the Great Lakes at Bay City, 1700 Center Avenue, specializes in Saginaw Bay and shipyard history.

Across the state, the Old Waterworks building in Manistee now houses marine and lumbering exhibits of the Manistee County Historical Society. The 1881 building itself is historic.

The first French settlement in Michigan is marked by a historic plaque on a high bluff overlooking Lake Michigan at St. Joseph. Named Fort Miami, it was built in 1679. The French built a second fort 12 years later at Niles. A visit to the Fort St. Joseph Historical Museum at Niles is worthwhile.

Islands always have been major Great Lakes attractions. The Manitou, Beaver and Mackinac islands plus Isle Royale are heavily visited.

The North and South Manitou islands, which will be part of the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore, may be reached by ferry from Leland. Prizes by outdoor enthusiasts, they once were wood-refueling stops for freighters.

Beaver Island — largest Lake Michigan island — is north of the Manitou and can be reached by ship from Charlevoix. The rustic, now-peaceful resort island with excellent fishing once was ruled by a self-proclaimed king.

Michigan's stirring past is recaptured on Mackinac Island, onetime British stronghold, and now a favorite vacation retreat where automobiles are banned. The Indians called it Michilimackinac, or Great Turtle.

Primitive Isle Royale National Park is Lake Superior's largest island. It is reached by boat from Houghton and Copper Harbor and also by plane. It is a backpacker's paradise.

Besides islands, lighthouses have great tourist appeal. Two well-known Great Lakes beacons are Fort Gratiot on the St. Clair River, just north of Port Huron's Blue Water Bridge, and the privately owned Old Presque Isle Lighthouse in Presque Isle Harbor, midway between Rogers City and Alpena. The former, Michigan's first lighthouse, still is active but cannot be toured. Presque Isle now is a marine and pioneer museum.

A mile southeast of Rogers City, one of the world's largest limestone quarries can be seen. Operations can be viewed from two lookout points, Harbor View and Quarry View.

Pianists play during festival

Belleville resident Debbie Kostelic and Mary Renke of Romulus were among hundreds of pianists throughout the state who participated in the Michigan Annual Music Festival recently.

The annual musical event, held Sunday, was sponsored by the Festival Teachers' Association and was presented in Meadow Brook Pavilion on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester.

The girls played in ensemble with Piano Group II, section 1, which rendered "The Entertainer", "The President's March" (Early American Music) and "Rain Drops."

Debbie, age 14, and Mary, age 12, study locally with Pearl Morris and Pearl Varner. Their parents are Mrs. and Mrs. John Kostelic of 43030 Huron River Drive, Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Renke of 11452 St. Aloysius Street, Romulus.

Church plans marriage rite

Following a shortened 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, the West Mound United Methodist Church of Taylor will be holding a special Marriage Service for married couples who wish to renew their wedding vows.

Father is Someone You Can Talk to".

The West Mound United Methodist Church is located at 22395 Eureka, across from the Southland Center. Church school for children and adults is at 11 a.m. each Sunday.

The re-marriage ceremony has been performed by the pastor, The Rev. Robert Dobson, on two other occasions, and is being repeated again for Father's Day by request.

The marriage service is like that used in the traditional West Mound rite with the exception that during the ceremony of "the lighting of the candle", individual couples only will be able to observe. The actual lighting will be performed by The Rev. and Mrs. Dobson.

Husbands and wives, however, will repeat the "pledge of faith" vows to each other and the vows for the giving and receiving of rings.

The sermon message for the morning will be "A

State's eastern tip: Tour full of contrast

The eastern tip of the Upper Peninsula offers a variety of travel attractions ranging from the Soo Locks, America's mightiest mile, to tree-covered, lonely islands. And this tour is for those who like contrast. The locks are an engineering marvel, while islands along the route offer peace and quiet and are popular with hunters and fishermen. The 115-mile circular trip includes the historic cities of Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace plus Sugar, Neebish, Drummond and the Les Cheneaux islands. Sault Ste. Marie, home of the St. Marys Falls Canal — better known as the Soo Locks — is Michigan's oldest city and the third oldest in the United States. The Sault celebrated its tricentennial seven years ago. "The four American locks, which carry more water traffic than any other canal in the world, are the city's big attraction," said Joseph Ratke, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager. "Operated by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, they have been modernized several times since they first were built in 1855." Three viewing stands next to the MacArthur Lock, closest to the mainland, enable visitors practically to touch the huge freighters being lifted between Lake Superior and Huron. Another attraction, just four blocks away, is the Ste. Marie Towers and Shrine, a 21-story, 3-columned observation tower-carillon, is a memorial to the men who explored and settled the Great Lakes, particularly Fr. Jacques Marquette.

Another attraction, also nearby, is the S.S. Valley Camp, a retired Great Lakes ore freighter which has been turned into a marine museum. For those who want to park and tour, the Soo trackless train covers a 14-mile route, part of it in Canada.

Muzzle loaders gain own hunting season

Hunters who use muzzle-loading rifles and shotguns can look forward to their first special season in Michigan late next fall. The Legislature has reached final agreement on a bill sponsored by State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) setting up the special season for Dec. 1 to Dec. 20, following the regular firearms deer season. Mahalak said he has received assurances that the governor will sign the bill. Specifically, the Legislation provides for a season on male deer for muzzle-loading rifles and shotguns firing balls of .44 caliber or larger, propelled by black powder. The bill, as introduced, would have restricted the muzzle-loader season to the Lower Peninsula because of possible Upper Peninsula local objections and the fact that the earlier winter in the Upper Peninsula limits deer movement and makes them easier marks. However, the Senate amended the bill to include designated areas of the Upper Peninsula. "This new special season will be good news for the growing numbers of Michigan hunters who enjoy the challenge of muzzle-loading weapons, or who like to identify with the heritage of early hunting in America," Mahalak said. "They now are required to hunt deer during the regular season, competing with other hunters with more accurate and rapid firing modern arms," he added. "Hunting with a muzzle-loader is a different type of sport than conventional hunting. It has been my contention for a number of years that it deserves a special season." Persons who do not have an overall Michigan sportsman's license will have to buy a special license for the muzzle-loader season, with part of the fee being used to improve deer habitat. Because of the rising popularity of the sport, several other states have special hunting seasons for old-fashioned firearms. There currently are between 3,000 and 6,000 hunters who might take advantage of the special muzzle-loader season in Michigan.

Parks to crack down on alcoholic beverages

Western Wayne County residents who might be considering a day of "a loaf of bread and a jug of wine" in the park may find the state isn't conducive to such endeavors. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is reminding campers that alcoholic beverages are being prohibited throughout several state parks and portions of a number of others. The alcohol ban is an attempt to make the parks quieter for campers by cutting down on rowdiness and disturbances. Permanent bans are in effect at the Brighton Recreation Area in Livingston County; Dodge

No. 4 State Park in Oakland County, the entire park; Grand Haven State Park in Ottawa County, day-use area; Hoffmaster State Park in Ottawa and Muskegon counties, the entire park; Holland State Park in Ottawa County, the entire park; Silver Lake in Oceana County, the dune buggy and lighthouse areas; and Warren Dunes State Park in Berrien County, the entire park except campground. A similar prohibition is in effect until Labor Day at Island Lake Recreation Area in Livingston County, the Island Lake day-use area; Pinckney Recreation Area in Livingston and Washtenaw counties, Silver Lake and Halfmoon Lake day-use areas; and Silver Lake State Park in Oceana County, Silver Lake Campground. No alcohol is permitted until June 23 at the Rochester - Utica Recreation Area of Macomb County, the entire area. The ban will remain in effect until Sunday at Ludington State Park in Mason County, the entire park, and at South Higgins Lake State Park in Roscommon County, the picnic beach area. Areas which have an alcohol ban in effect will be posted to notify campers and other park users of the restriction.

CUFA: Organization to turn to for needy

Poor families or people in need of assistance have a place to turn to, Communities United For Action (CUFA), a non-profit organization which serves seven communities in Wayne County, including Romulus and Sumpter Township. Designed to help low-income families in a self-help approach to solving their problems, CUFA maintains Neighborhood Service centers to provide outreach, referral, counselling and information on community events. Each center supports and offers programs for local needs, such as food buying co-ops, consumer information and craft classes. Neighborhood centers have been set up at 35351 Beverly Road in Romulus and at 23568 Sumpter Road in Sumpter Township with centers also located in the neighboring communities of Inkster at 29150 Carlyle and in Taylor at 15678 Kerstyn. Also available at the centers are family planning to provide free women's health services. That work is part of a mobile unit that visits the Romulus center on a set schedule. Call 326-2120 for further information. CUFA also is in the process of organizing a manpower resources and training list and operates a Neighborhood Youth Corps program. The telephone numbers for the Romulus and Sumpter centers are 326-4220 or 326-4221 and 1-461-6525 respectively.

'75 draft signups stopped

For many years Western Wayne County young men were required to register for the draft within a few days of their 18th birth date. The registration procedures, however, were changed on April 1, 1975, and since that date no one can be registered during the remainder of the year — 1975. Although public announcements were made about this change in April,

Selective Service offices still are getting calls from 18 year olds asking if they still have to register. Instead of registering within a few days of their 18th birth date, it is planned that they will register during a single annual registration period of a few days in early 1976. Any such new registration procedure would be announced by a Presidential proclamation at that time. A nationwide campaign would then be launched simultaneously to give information of the dates of the annual registration and the places where the young men would go to register. Men, therefore, should not attempt to register with the draft until next year when the new registration procedures are placed into effect.

These are Les Cheneaux Islands, one of the state's best vacation areas for those who like to fish and enjoy water sports and boating in safe, protected waters. The area has numerous cabin-cottage type accommodations. While the visitor can drive through part of the islands, a boat is needed to see their primitive beauty and all types are for rent. The islands in the group extend from east to west about 12 miles and range in size from 4,000 acres to less than an acre. St. Ignace is the last stop on the tour. Fr. Marquette founded a mission here in 1671. Visitors should be sure to see the Old Mission Church in Marquette Park. The 135-year-old church now is a museum. On one side is the grave of Fr. Marquette, on the other is the impressive Fr. Marquette Memorial. This year, St. Ignace celebrates its "Black Gown Tree" pageant Aug. 29-31. The pageant re-enacts Fr. Marquette's arrival by canoe at St. Ignace and his reception by the Indians.

REALTY
There's something about a mature home...
like
SPACIOUSNESS
One of the primary benefits in buying an older home is the extra space you get for your money!
Every square foot of space costs more today than ever before. Few new homes have the large airy rooms, the walk-in closets, the extra rooms for differing family activities which make older homes so attractive.
If you're looking for spaciousness, look to one of the mature homes Earl Keim Realty now has available for immediate occupancy.
